

Page 20 of 29

< 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 >

Show 40 post\(s\) from this thread on one page

scams (<http://www.scam.com/index.php>)

- MLM / Pyramid Scams (<http://www.scam.com/forumdisplay.php?f=11>)

- - Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an EVIL Rat! Liar and Scammer!
(<http://www.scam.com/showthread.php?t=14273>)

Soapboxmom

06-06-2008 09:34 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Jack,

If you and Tim were Christians as you claim, both of you personally and Tim's so called foundation would be reaching out to the reps you have ruined financially. Our family is still helping out several reps that you boys are personally responsible for hurting financially, emotionally and spiritually.

You boys are only Christians when you can use that as a tool to defraud folks out of their money or indeed their life savings. You do not feed your enemy and reach out to these reps when they have lost thousands of dollars and wasted months of their lives desperately working this business with everything they have financially and physically. You boys are the bane of Christianity. It is such a sorrow that you continue to lure folks in with your talk of God-ordained and Christ centered when at least 98% have lost money and many now question their faith. So, many have faced bankruptcy, foreclosure, sale of homes, sale of possessions, hunger, loans (former reps will pay on that were taken solely to line your pockets, boys)and mountains of credit card debt.

You boys have merrily gone on your way with this malicious destruction in your wake. Many former reps and good Christians are now reaching out to those you harmed and certainly as God watches He will continue to support those who are truly doing His work to stop this from harming anyone else. The fact you boys have lost Jack's entire clan of 5 pastors (that quit and refused to sell this junk) and your church, Timmy, refused to have anything to do with your foundation tells us that God is seeing the truth prevails and this nightmare will soon end. I suggest, since you boys know full well the many in grave trouble financially, you see to it they have help to recover, keep food on their plates and a roof over their heads. You supposed Christians have so many that need your help!

Soapboxmom

jweinzierl

06-07-2008 10:02 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Soapboxmom (Heather Dobrott from Garland, TX)

We have helped many over the years and it is sad that you act like you are sharing facts. Why is that sad? Because there are actually folks that think they are doing due diligence on this site. What is also sad is that you have been screaming "fire" for years now driving people away from the businesses of the people you claim to be helping. Fire, fire, fire, everyone run, everyone quit and by the way, I am here to help as you run from that theater (that is not burning) because you lost your money on that ticket. It is simply a broke mindset and I pray for you SBM.

Wishyouknew

06-07-2008 08:11 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Quote:

Originally Posted by jweinzierl (Post 526228)
Soapboxmom (Heather Dobrott from Garland, TX)

We have helped many over the years and it is sad that you act like you are sharing facts. Why is that sad? Because there are actually folks that think they are doing due diligence on this site. What is also sad is that you have been screaming "fire" for years now driving people away from the businesses of the people you claim to be helping. Fire, fire, fire, everyone run, everyone quit and by the way, I am here to help as you run from that theater (that is not burning) because you lost your money on that ticket. It is simply a broke mindset and I pray for you SBM.

Jack, Its comical to me to hear you say this.

You and Tim dug your own grave in Advantage Conferences WAY before Soapboxmom got involved...

When Tim had the audacity to attempt to join the BBB, lie to people telling them he was a member of the BBB, and then attempt to sue them when he was not allowed in.. Was the "Fire" that caused people to start to raise the "red flag"..

Are you so delusional that you have forgotten this?

SBM has done nothing but provide FACTS on here and bring them to light..

To keep with your analogy of the theater being on fire.

If the theater WAS in FACT on fire and you were blind and could not see it.. Would'nt you want someone to tell you and help you out?

I would!!!! Thank you SBM for all of your efforts.. I wish I could do more!!!

spanky

06-07-2008 08:21 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Quote:

Originally Posted by Wishyouknew (Post 526360)

Jack, Its comical to me to hear you say this.

You and Tim dug your own grave in Advantage Conferences WAY before Soapboxmom got involved...

When Tim had the audacity to attempt to join the BBB, lie to people telling them he was a member of the BBB, and then attempt to sue them when he was not allowed in.. Was the "Fire" that caused people to start to raise the "red flag"..

Are you so dulusional that you have forgotten this?

SBM has done nothing but provide FACTS on here and bring them to light..

To keep with your analogy of the theater being on fire.

If the theater WAS in FACT on fire and you were blind and could not see it.. Would'nt you want someone to tell you and help you out?

I would!!!! Thank you SBM for all of your efforts.. I wish I could do more!!!

Amen to that!! :)

dreamtripper

06-08-2008 06:11 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Quote:

Originally Posted by Soapboxmom (Post 521270)

Scammer Jack,

I watched the video for the Dallas Leadership Acceleration Workshop. That is all recruit, recruit, recruit. No one mentions selling any travel products, but rather just getting plugged into the "acceleration system" as all the top 20 earners have done. What percentage of travel sales are to people not in the money making scheme? Build that business / team quick. We are in the "momentum phase"-----powerful! LOLLOLOLOLOLOLOLOLOLOLO! Why would anyone pay between $200.00 and $300.00 for a silly motivational rally? Remember Amway, scammer?

http://jackweinzierl.worldventures.c...?event_id=131&

Soapboxmom

that event in not intended to be about retail travel sales. We have another conference for that. Since they are two specific areas of the business they require 2 specific trainings.

Soapboxmom

06-08-2008 08:48 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Quote:

Originally Posted by dreamtripper (Post 526472)

that event in not intended to be about retail travel sales. We have another conference for that. Since they are two specific areas of the business they require 2 specific trainings.

Quote:

FTC declarations have stated that if the majority of the money used to pay the "upliners" is gained primarily from the purchases of the downliners – not from their retail customers – the payments are de facto payments for recruiting. In such cases, the "business opportunity" is not to sell the MLM products but to recruit others into the "business opportunity" in an endless chain. Endless chains are considered "inherent frauds" since they cannot deliver on their promise of income to any but a few at the top; the vast majority are doomed from the start to financial losses; and the schemes must use deception to lure consumers into nearly certain financial losses.

The FTC also says:

Your Responsibilities

If you decide to become a distributor, you are legally responsible for the claims you make about the company, its product and the business opportunities it offers. That applies even if you're repeating claims you read in a company brochure or advertising flyer. The Federal Trade Commission advises you to verify the research behind any claims about a product's performance before repeating those claims to a potential customer.

In addition, if you solicit new distributors, you are responsible for the claims you make about a distributor's earnings potential. Be sure to represent the opportunity honestly and avoid making unrealistic promises. If those promises fall through, remember that you could be held liable.

Dream,

From everything I have seen this is nothing more than a recruiting/pyramid scheme. Why don't you give us the percentage of sales to retail customers---you know----ones that are not part of the pay plan. I suspect only a tiny fraction of the sales are to legitimate customers. Please provide us with some facts! That will also tell us the earnings potential with this thing. The customer to rep ratio should show 100, 1000, 10,000, or more customers per rep. That is how real companies operate.

Wishyouknew, thank you so much for all the devotion you have shown to protecting the public. Maybe Jack will come on here with facts for once. I think with the 2 current cases against Advantage Conferences this Titanic is near rock bottom.

Soapboxmom

dreamtripper

06-08-2008 02:06 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Quote:

Originally Posted by Soapboxmom (Post 526522)
Dream,

From everything I have seen this is nothing more than a recruiting/pyramid scheme. Why don't you give us the percentage of sales to retail customers---you know----ones that are not part of the pay plan. I suspect only a tiny fraction of the sales are to legitimate customers. Please provide us with some facts! That will also tell us the earnings potential with this thing. The customer to rep ratio should show 100, 1000, 10,000, or more customers per rep. That is how real companies operate.

Wishyouknew, thank you so much for all the devotion you have shown to protecting the public. Maybe Jack will come on here with facts for once. I think with the 2 current cases against Advantage Conferences this Titanic is near rock bottom.

Soapboxmom

To be honest I do not know the specifics. We have many people who buy our dream trips membership (our premier product) but also sign up as a rep in case they refer anyone. Even though they are a rep it is more or less as a casual rep but they bought the membership because they see value. For me to provide a thorough explanation it would take more typing than I am willing to invest. My guess is it would not change your perception so without much to gain again why invest the time. I do not know who this Jack guy is other than he is new in our company and you have a beef with him from a previous deal. I just wanted to let you know that we do have the LTC seminar for success every month which specifically focuses on retail travel sales.

Best,

jweinzierl

06-10-2008 01:29 PM

Re: Watch Out

Dreamtripper, this person has never had any personal experience with me or our company. She has never attended our main product, and she continues to attack the company and me as a rep, personally, even when the company is now a straight affiliate program. We are boldly faith based so we will attract those who hate what we do and stand for. Unfortunately, people can say whatever they please on a forum like this with no regard for the truth as they hide behind a screen name. Have a blessed week.

Soapboxmom

06-11-2008 02:01 PM

Re: Watch Out

Quote:

Originally Posted by jweinzierl (Post 527491)

Dreamtripper, this person has never had any personal experience with me or our company. She has never attended our main product, and she continues to attack the company and me as a rep, personally, even when the company is now a straight affiliate program. We are boldly faith based so we will attract those who hate what we do and stand for. Unfortunately, people can say whatever they please on a forum like this with no regard for the truth as they hide behind a screen name. Have a blessed week.

Jack,

Laddie boy, no one has ever attacked Christianity. There is no persecution or religious war here. The fact you are using folks faith to defraud them out of substantial sums of money is quite sickening. We scambusters are out to protect Christians. Looking out for our fellow man is an act of love and compassion. You will not threaten me into silence.

You are once again accusing me of lying. If there is something on scam that is untrue, misleading or incorrectly calculated, you need to quote what you are referring to and provide the correct information. The truth and facts are on scam. Your call notes, internet postings, court papers and e-mails etc. are the basis for everything on here. You are free to post whatever you please. Why don't you refute those mysterious inaccuracies you always hint at?

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-15-2008 07:05 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Quote:

Big Ticket Wealth Home Business Opportunity Texas
Money – <http://www.Big-Ticket-Wealth.com> online business opportunity. Learn why I said NO to Passport to Wealth. Earn $50,000 a month following a proven system. Christian mentoring. Call me at 817.205.9513.

Tags: Big Ticket to Wealth, Texas home based business, home based business ideas, home based business opportunity, Christian business

69 days ago by jack-weinzierl

My Internet Business is a powerful home business. Join the #1 Rainmakers team with Jack Weinzierl and Bill Broadbent. We are not recruiters, we are trainers and mentors.

Earn $2,000.00 Per Sale. If you are a professional, or a business owner, this is an opportunity to leverage web 2.0 training for your business and supplement your income with the lucrative compensation plan at My Internet Business.

Proven system you say, lad? Please provide the proof. Tell us the number of reps, the number and percentage of retail sales, the average earnings, the high and low earnings figures and the percentages at each income level. Christian mentoring should mean we can expect truthful accountability. You will give the public an honest accounting of what kind of success you are having, won't you? With your other opportunities you sure put up plenty of press releases bragging about your earnings. Please get cracking, lad. We are anxiously awaiting some facts!

If everyone is a rep and gets 25 sales a month.....

1

25

625

15,625

390,625

9,765,625

244,140,625

6,103,515,625

152,587,890,625

Oh, my goodness. If everyone is a rep and gets 25 sales we will be interplanetary very soon. MLM math is really scary, isn't it, lad?

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-16-2008 06:47 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

A Pharoah's Guide To Multi Level Marketing

Thu, Jun 12, 2008

<http://www.scamtypes.com/a-pharoahs-...marketing.html>

Now, that is funny! Better get some laughs while you can, Jack!

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-17-2008 07:16 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Quote:

Originally Posted by SoapBoxDad

Full Forgiveness of Sins – that's right, every sin you've ever committed will be fully erased.

CHURCH - Find a Bible teaching, Christ centered church in order to become a member.

BAPTISM - Tell the pastor that you have just become a Christian and you would like to be baptized.

PRAYER – You can talk to God, telling Him everything and asking Him anything. You should begin and end each day in prayer. Thank God for all your rich gifts he provides – food, air, shelter, friendships, etc. Your life won't be perfect, but you'll be more aware of your rich blessings when you look for the good that God has provided for you!

Jack,

Let's have a philosophical debate. I think the idea of every sin being erased is a serious flaw that exist in the Christian faith. It gives folks like you an easy out. You feel no fear no matter how egregiously you have sinned against your fellow man as you have faith you have a guaranteed escape clause. I don't believe Jesus shed his blood and gave his life so you could hurt others and then invoke His holy name to seek automatic, guaranteed forgiveness.

I have lived my life based on honesty and integrity. I don't want to spend my life having faith that I will be forgiven. I want to face my maker knowing I have always been honest, generous and just. Why not make every effort to do the right things all the time?

Your second point I think is entirely valid. The Gospel is not for sale. One should find a good local parish and spread The Word without having to get involved with folks like you to do it. One does not have to pay money for the privilege of sharing the Good News. When you are ordained or receive your degree in biblical studies or theology let me know, Jack. Christian fellowship should also not have a price on it. Folks need to find all those things in their home town.

Many folks who have been in ventures with you previously are being contacted by you, Jack. All you are doing is desperately pushing all your new MLM deals. They immediately realized you had no interest in friendship or Christian fellowship. You were not contacting them to share some friendly words and enjoy catching up with one another. You were only out once again to drag them into a more bum business deals to line your pocket.

I know my heart and motives are pure. I hope you can say the same, Jack. I think you are a wolf in sheep's clothing.

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-18-2008 08:34 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

http://www.consumerfraudreporting.org/MLM_ethics.php

Quote:

Greed and Ethics in Multi-Level Marketing

Materialism and greed are universally condemned by every major religion, and even by most of the nonreligious. This does not mean people are not materialistic or greedy; in fact, the fact that the ethical call to not be so is actually strong evidence that we are.

For most people, this means if we are going to be materialistic or greedy, we would rather not be obvious about it. Thus, Madison Avenue has subtle, highly polished marketing and advertising ways of appealing to these vices without being heavy handed. We don't mind so much... as long as it is "veiled." This hypocrisy, while sad, is the status quo. So, Madison Avenue is trying to be ever more subtle in appearing not to be manipulating our immoral "bent" towards greed and materialism.

But this is not so with the MLM crowd. Pick up any brochure or videotape for an MLM and you are more than likely to see a cheesy, obvious, and blatant appeal to greed and materialism. This is offensive to everyone, even die-hard materialists. Typical is an appeal to "the American dream." Usually there will be a mood shot of a large new home, a luxury car, a boat, perhaps a beautiful couple boarding a Lear jet, and so on. Isn't odd that while they claim the product or service they sell is so great, but so little attention is given to the product, and so much to the wealth of the sellers and "distributors"?

Such a transparent appeal ought to make people suspicious. "Why the bait?" "Are they trying to 'get my juices going' so that my brain turns off?" "Couldn't they show people doing more wholesome things with the money they make?" "Why do we see so little about the product, the manufacturing, the quality control, the business planning, etc?" "If this is really a legitimate opportunity, why not focus on the market, product, or service instead of people reveling in conspicuous greed and materialism?"

The distraction is needed because unbridled greed suspends good judgment. When the eyes gloss over in a materialistic glaze, common sense is a stranger.

You must push values that are contrary to your own

In most MLMs you will have no choice. You are going to have to sit through meeting after meeting after meeting after meeting. You are going to be "motivated" to coerce your friends and family to hear "the pitch." This is the way the "dream" is planted and fertilized. Get used to it.

If you are a materialist, you only have to get over the painfully obvious greedy appearance of the presentation. But if you do not wish to promote such ideas, if you consider them sinful, then this puts you at the focal point of a moral dilemma. Do you wish to be a salesperson for materialism?

Personality Cults

In typical MLM's , the "approved materials" showed what a great man the founder is, depicted the depth of his management experience, showed him in mood shots, etc, showing how wealthy he is and how many other "successful" business he started. It is easy to swoon in admiration of such a powerful, visionary man, dedicated to bringing this wonderful opportunity to common Americans like us. This is the essence of a personality cult.

In one case (Fund America) it turned out that the founder was a criminal on the lame from Australia, where he had been run out of town for doing the same. But you would never guess it from the company material. There is was "a great man".

It does pay to do some research here. Are the idols you are being asked to worship in MLM worthy of respect, or contempt? Have they been prosecuted or sued for exploiting people in the past? Have they done prison time? Check them out in Google! Do not expect to hear the full truth in the MLM video.

Pride

Pride plays a role in the ethics of MLM's. "Mr. Prospect, now you aren't required to buy more than three product units, but why bother joining unless you plan to succeed? Besides, all of our products are 100% money back guaranteed."

"Hmmm... To ask for a refund, then, is to admit defeat. Others appear to be doing O.K. at this. I'm no failure! Perhaps I should go to another motivational seminar or strong-arm and alienate one more friend to join. I wasn't fooled! I'm no failure!"

So, the "inventory" and "recruitment kits," never viable, collect dust. They become a pile in the back closet or attic, a trophy to pride being unable to admit that greed seized the moment.

So why doesn't the government shut down all MLM's? They must be legitimate!

A few large MLMs have survived despite the best efforts of law enforcement officials to shut them down. The MLM's spend millions of dollars to protect, lobby, and insulate themselves. But the same could be said for any organized crime. It is difficult to stop once it becomes so large.

And MLMs look so legitimate to the public, so decent. So many nice people are involved. Surely, it can't be illegal! The people lower down may even defend the very organization that is robbing them, hoping that they might get their chance to make "the big money" later.

But if it looks like a duck, walks like a duck, and quacks like a duck, it probably is a duck. Unless it is an MLM, and then it is NOT a pyramid.

The Feds generally see it differently... when the ML (multi-level) aspect begins to eclipse the M (marketing) of products or services.

People can make money in an MLM, undeniably. The moral issue is: Where is the money coming from? Selling product? Then why not sell the same product in the "real world"?

But everyone knows that the real incentive is the pyramid aspect, and the product just the excuse to make it legal, or at least the MLM promoter would like you to believe it is legal.

Regardless of all the vehement denials, MLMs are all to some extent pyramid schemes, and pyramid schemes are illegal. Sure, some are "getting away with it," but so did the Mafia for decades. It is hard to stop a juggernaut, especially one that has taken such pains to look legitimate and misunderstood, that is highly organized, and that has so much money from its victims to propagandize, lobby, and defend itself. And so the exploitation goes on.

If these guys show up in your neighborhood, you are either "in" or "out," family or target, friend or foe. Suspicion rules the day; everyone has an "angle"; greed supplants innocence. The "neighborhood" is turned into a marketplace, and may never recover from the blow.

The ethical questions remain: Are MLMs a morally acceptable way to make money? Are they--and will they continue to be--legitimate?

The ethics of selling MLM products

If money is needed that badly, why not simply ask friends and family for help rather than taking money from them under false pretenses--and also selling them a bill of goods? By "sponsoring" them, you have not only conned them and profited at their expense, you have made them feel like losers, since they are not able to make a success of the hopeless MLM concept.

Once seen, only the morally blind, or consciously criminal, could continue in such a "business."

But wait, perhaps you could recruit... your mother!

Summary of Ethical Problems with MLMs

Do I want to be involved in encouraging people to be more materialistic?

Do I want to sell a product that perhaps couldn't be sold any other way?

Do I want to be a part of an enterprise famous for slander, libel, and rumor? (Jack, you published sickening and completely fictitious allegations of stalking on your own sites among the other egregious lies in those attacks)

Do I want to be a part of a company that may employ criminals as marketing experts?

Do I want to make money off my ability to convince people that an unworkable marketing system is viable?

Do I want to be known among my friends and family as a person who tried to con people with a thinly veiled pyramid scheme?

Do I want to push friends and family to buy expensive products, whether they are good or not, that they may not want or need, and for which less expensive alternatives are readily available?

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-18-2008 11:06 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Jack Weinzierl,

It is high time for some more MLM math. Let's examine one of your latest---WorldVentures.

<https://www.worldventures.info/pdfs/ids2007Q3.pdf>

Quote:

The average quarterly commission or override check based on all Independent Representatives ("IR") was $ 79.48 for the third quarter of 2007. During the third quarter of 2007, 11.5% of all Independent Representatives earned a commission or override check.

So, 88.5% received no checks at all-----zero, nada, nothing. Those folks are on the bottom selling Leisure Travel Consultant repships etc. and lining the pockets of the top goons. That earnings table shows all the money funneling up to that top 11.5% that actually got paid anything. Only a tiny percentage of that group made any kind of living.

Position/ Percent of Reps/ Average Quarterly Earnings

(Peon) 88.5% 0

Rep 9.2% $175.29

Fully Qualified Rep 1.5% $614.50

Senior Rep 0.4% $1,432.80

Director 0.26% $7,340.07

Marketing Director 0.033% $23,705.36

Regional Marketing Dir. 0.007% $52,907.95

National Marketing Dir. 0.002% $99,791.71

International Marketing Dir. 0.012% $130,603.89

0.317% make more than $29,361.44 annually (I multiplied the quaterly figure by 4). So, only 1/3 of 1 percent even approach making a living a this. This travel market is full of MLMs recruiting folks. There are tons of discount travel sites and, of course, there are traditionally trained, knowledgeable agents that actually know something about travel and can help folks book the real dream vacation they want.

Only 0.054% of the reps exceed $94,821.44 in annual earnings. That number is miniscule. We also don't know what the drop out rate is. Most likely there will be massive numbers of folks churning on the bottom of the pyramid and simply paying their money in so it will trickel upward.

<http://www.veoh.com/videos/v14213281...ology&order=mr>

Quote:

Be mentored by a Christian Leader. Learn why I said NO to YTB, Traverus, Passport to Wealth, Liberty League, EDC, Wealth Masters, Reverse Funnel, and Coastal vacations.

Your video is hilarious. Long term and built with integrity you say. How many long terms deals have you been in for heaven's sake? LOL!!!! Plant and water the seeds sure sounds familiar. Perfect storm of opportunity again????? Be in prayer and peace about it yet again????? That is also very Christian to knock those other bum deals you list as if you have a better alternative. LOL!!!!

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-18-2008 11:32 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

<http://www.consumerfraudreporting.or...ourfriends.php>

Quote:

Counting the Cost: The First Church of MLM

Many readers will share the experience of observing MLMs divide families, friends, churches, and civic groups. Lifelong friends are now "prospects." The neighborhood is now "a market." Motives change, suspicions rise, divisions form. The question is begged: "Is it worth it?"

Especially nasty is the church situation. Will the pastor join? If not, he will take a dim view of MLM proselytizing at church functions; animosity will rise, factions will form. You are either "in" or out. If the pastor joins, then those who are not "in" will feel a little uncomfortable in this church.

A church (or any community group) can be easily torpedoed by an MLM.

Trust Your Instincts?

For most people, thankfully, the MLM experience usually ends in very quick financial failure and is then sidelined. Two possible responses are: 1) being embarrassed about participation, or 2) becoming even more intractable when the MLM has failed. You will find the latter chasing after the latest "get rich quick" scheme with similar results. "If we could have just sponsored so and so--they have so many friends--we would have made it."

Thus, there is reason for the "bad taste" most people have for MLMs. By instinct if not experience or insight, we wince at the thought of what we know will follow in the wake of an MLM. Relationships strained, factions formed, deception, manipulation, greed, loss, a closet full of videotapes, brochures, and useless inventory that "everybody wants."

Business failure of any type is traumatic on the relationships involved, but in most small businesses there is at least the chance of success. And this is never the case in an MLM, unless "success" can be defined as profiting off of the failures of others.

Jack,

Do honestly discuss the situation with your reps concerning a church that came to me for help to avoid getting tangled up in a lawsuit.

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-19-2008 08:33 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

<http://www.scamtypes.com/before-you-join-that-mlm.html>

Quote:

Before You Join That MLM.....

The following is a very quick guide, covering just the essential homework you should do before joining any multi level marketing scheme opportunity.

Most people, myself included, are always on the lookout for ways to make more money.

Most of us would like to earn that extra income without having to give up our existing jobs and without having to work too hard.

In this internet age there are many ways to earn that extra income, be it running a website, filling in surveys, or a myriad of other opportunities.

The only problem, though, is working out which are legitimate and which are scams.

I've written about paid survey scams before so, today, here are some tips for avoiding multi level marketing scams -

Check The Company's Track Record With The BBB

This can be pretty easy to do and can save you a lot of money in the long run.

First stop should probably be the Better Business Bureau (BBB) who offer objective reports about complaints levied at specific companies, if any exist.

Google

A quick search with Google can yield a lot of information - type the company's names in quotes with the word 'scam' or 'review' afterwards, e.g. "mlm" + scam.

Remember, though, that the original author may have a vested interest in promoting / bashing the site or company that they have written about.

Blogs And Forums

Blogs and forums are designed to promote discussion. If someone is promoting a scam on them then the community are very likely to have their say about it!

When viewing such sites remember to read the comments generated by visitors as these are likely to offer a more balanced view than the original article.

Also be aware, however, that some comments are unduly biased one way or another - i.e. brainwashed mlmers praising their scheme everywhere they go.

A good forum to start with is scam.com

Ask about a fixed phone number and a real address

If a particular mlm has interested you then enquire about their contact details.

That's because, without an address, you're classed as homeless, and would you want to do business with a homeless company?

Didn't think so.

You'll also want to ensure that they have a phone number so that you can contact them whenever you need assistance.

Speak to real people

In theory, speaking to people who already work for a company will allow you to build a picture of what they are like.

However, remember that some network marketers are programmed with responses for every eventuality so it would be wise to take anything they say with a pinch of salt!

They want to recruit YOU!

Costs

Make sure all costs are transparent and that you know what you are getting into.

Are there monthly subscriptions, training courses that need paying for, or minimum purchase requirements?

Earnings

What are realistic earnings?

Any over-enthusiastic recruiter can tell you that the sky is the limit but how much can you really make?

Do earnings come from sales predominantly, or are they from recruitment?

Final Word

If, after undertaking all that research and doing your due dilligence, you are still convinced then STOP!

Ask yourself one more question.

Is time up for multi level marketing?

How wonderful that we here at scam.com get such glowing recommendations!

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-19-2008 08:48 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

I thought we could use some more comic relief.

<http://www.scamtypes.com/recruiting-for-hell.html>

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-23-2008 09:21 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Quote:

Originally Posted by jweinzierl (Post 527492)

Soapboxmom, Heather Dobrott, I used to state that you spread half-truths, but I cannot even give you that. I am saddened by your self-destructive behavior here. I pray for you most every day. As far as your post, the truth will prevail.

Jack,

The truth did prevail as always! Would you like to share the truth about what transpired today or are you going to allow me the honor and privelege of posting the truth? God is absolutely in control!

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-25-2008 07:22 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Jack,

You do have your MBA. Perhaps you would like to put that to use and answer a little business question for us. If an entity that was said to be tax-exempt is not recognized by the IRS as such (federally recognized), then won't that entity be subject to federal tax by the IRS? Won't that entity be likely to owe thousands in back taxes and perhaps interest and penalties?

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

06-25-2008 02:54 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

<http://www.scam.com/showpost.php?p=371755&postcount=1>

Jack,

Remember that bunk Timmy handed folks about not being allowed to post here? Well, I personally invited your brother in Christ to join us here after pointing out to him that he knowingly lied about not being able to post here. When can we expect Darnell to honestly address the many issues raised here?

Timmy Darnell said, "The negative postings are easily exposed and laid to rest with a few short sentences if readers were really looking for veracity and truth." Go for it, Timmy! I am sure that you, Jack, will welcome him here as well. The Lord knows you sure could use some help!

Soapboxmom

Bruceinv

06-25-2008 03:26 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

SBM - We need you on the travel MLM 'discussions'. You Rock!

Your admirer,
Bruce

Soapboxmom

06-27-2008 09:30 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Thank you, Bruceinv,

Ya'll are the tops and I look forward to joining the fun after I am done with these AC clowns.

Jack, how are you explaining the latest legal debacle to your few remaining brainwaswhed reps? The judge gave Timmy absolutely nothing--nada. Why is it your name isn't on that frivolous suit? Are you regretting perpetuating all Timmy's lies? I came with evidence to refute every sickening allegation Timmy made. All Timmy had was a pile of totally truthful, scathing post from scam.com. You are such a chicken you didn't even show up. Do you trust Timmy to tell you what really transpired in his latest business suicide attempt?

The Better Business Bureau suit, the suit against Dr. Jon Taylor, constant blame of many others and now yet more litigation. Is that how successful businesses are operated? You do understand groundless suits filed for the purpose of harassment do get thrown out in Texas. Sanctions can be filed and once again Timmy will be footing the bill. Isn't this getting embarrassing, lad?

The Dallas legal community must be getting a huge laugh out of this!

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-04-2008 08:57 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Jack,

Lad, has the cat got your tongue? Shouldn't you be here to join all of us at scam.com in wishing everyone a wonderful 4th of July?

Since we are on the subject of fireworks, I think there will be a lot of explosions in the near future. Has your religious/financial cult leader filled everyone in honestly about the many shocking developments? Why is it you won't honestly address any of those many pressing issues here? The light of truth will be shining very brightly and many things will be on scam.com in the near future for the benefit of the public and Christians everywhere.

I hope you are ready for the display that will be here, lad. Happy Fireworks!

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-05-2008 08:30 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Advantage Conferences

Code of Ethics

Quote:

9. REPRESENTATIONS BY REPS

Reps are independent contractors, fully responsible for their own business procedures and are not to be considered purchasers of a franchise, or employees of Advantage Conferences. The agreement between Advantage Conferences and a Rep does not create or constitute an employer/employee, agency, partnership or joint venture relationship.....

22. SUSPENSION BY INACTIVITY

Company is committed to its “Active” producing Reps and their respective businesses. The Company often asserts in trainings and published materials the importance of consistency of participation and activity in a Rep’s enterprise, their marketing campaigns, communication on a regular basis, and reasonable involvement with Company sanctioned activities.

The Company often asserts the old, yet highly relevant maxim – “Winners never quit, and quitters never win.” Inactivity falls into the same category of “quitting”, and will not be rewarded by the Advantage Conferences compensation structure.

Definition of Inactivity – A Rep will be considered inactive if four or more of the following conditions exist:

- A. Non-attendance on a majority of Company Team Training Calls
- B. Non-attendance on a majority of Company Opportunity Calls
- C. Non-attendance on a majority of specially announced Company Calls
- D. Non-attendance at Company live events
- E. Failure to make personally generated product sales (does not include referral sales)
- F. Failure to renew website
- G. Failure to personally enroll a Representative
- H. Failure to communicate with Home Office
- I. Failure to communicate with their organizational members
- J. Failure to communicate with their Pro Rep or Mentor

After three (3) months of consecutive inactivity, a Rep will be officially and automatically “suspended” from all aspects of the commission structure for a minimum of two months. The Rep is eligible for “Active” reinstatement upon written request by the inactive Rep, review by the Company, and the recommendation (in writing) by their Pro Rep or Mentor.

Timmy wrote:

Quote:

The excitement level at AC is fantastic right now. The future is BRIGHT to say the least! many of you found out just how exciting things really are on this morning's call!!! Attendance was near record numbers and we have been swamped with messages from the field.....

Housekeeping: Be sure to treat your Repship with professionalism and consistency. Some of you have not read the Policies and procedures document for Representatives. We've made a few changes that are a bit more Rep-friendly relative to earlier policy.....

Also, please be aware of the definition of "Active" Representatives in the P&P. It is unfortunate to ever talk in terms of "minimums", but a necessity for corporate due to the way some reps treat (or don't treat) their business. If you are attending and announcing yourself on calls on a regular basis, and making a genuine effort to promote your business, then you have nothing to be concerned about.

Important Note: Inactivity, as defined by the P&P triggers forfeiture of commission rights. We have plenty of "active" reps who do deserve commissions. Non-active reps do not. Activity breeds production, and that is what reps are here to do - produce and support. If you are an "Active Rep i applaud you. if not, then you can change your level of production and support into a positive! Read the list of items that constitute "active" and simply begin plugging in.....

IRS says:

Quote:

Common-Law Employees

Under common-law rules, anyone who performs services for you is your employee if you have the right to control what will be done and how it will be done.

Jack,

We need you to put that MBA to work give us a coherent explanantion of the issues I am raising here.

The proceeding might explain how you got labeled an evil dictator, Timmy.

The Department of Labor has been a topic of much discussion. Folks that renewed and paid the renewal fees should have gotten their matrix checks for the whole year they paid for. Timmy calls the reps independent contractors, but then he treats them as employees under his control.

Timmy are you sure you can legally force folks to be on calls? Couldn't you face serious consequences for not paying commissions folks were rightfully due? Your definition of inactive is not enforceable either, lad. You did not give a specific percentage of calls that must be attended or a minimum number. These issues weren't addressed before the reps paid their renewal fees either.

Timmy, you also require attendance at live events (your worthless conference). You probably can't force a rep to pay $995.00 and travel at their own expense (flight, rental car hotel and food are exhorbitant). You likely can't coerce and threaten independent contractors into spending money and time on their businesses if they choose not to. If you want to exercise your control freak routine you need to pay salaries and benefits and get yourself some employees. Employers pay and/or reimburse all those expenses and therefore get the privelege of dictating things.

All this is on the way to the Department of Labor, IRS and the Texas Attorney General's office. Good luck explaining this debacle.

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-07-2008 08:30 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

<http://www.scamtypes.com/15-ways-to...y-with-it.html>

Quote:

15 Ways To Make Pyramid Profits And Get Away With It

Wed, Jun 25, 2008

Featured

If you have read my site for any length of time then you will be well aware that I am not a great fan of multi level marketing.

One of the reasons why is that many of them seem to bear a remarkable resemblance to pyramid schemes which everyone knows are both unethical and downright illegal.

But.

What if.

I could get away with running a pyramid scheme by staying just one step ahead of the law?

Would I do it?

Hmmmm.. if I did, here's how, in 15 dubious steps -

#1 Non-comprehension

I would decide upon a compensation plan that was way too difficult for the average distributor to fully comprehend. (Thereby making it easy to rip the suckers off)

Of course, I would make it sound like it was easy to get rich, even though I'd be the only one who ever made good money from it.

#2 Zero Competition

I would ensure that the product my mlm was selling was offbeat. By this I mean that it would have no market competition, even if that was because there wasn't actually any real demand for my product.

If the main ingredient comes from an Amazonian rain forest then that would be ideal as this would add at least $20 onto the retail price.

An additional side benefit of no competition would be the fact that no-one would be able to run any price or effectiveness comparisons.

#3 Is There A Doctor In The House?

I would hire a doctor (in fact anyone with a doctorate will do, even if it's not medically based) and will pay them to find some extremely thin and barely provable links to remote but almost possible health benefits.

Then I'd get the doctor to say it cures cancer or AIDS or such like, even if it isn't true. (I'll be long gone with the cash by the time anyone realises the truth)

#4 Financial Freedom 2008 Inc

Next, perhaps the hardest part of all - naming the company.

Feel free to add you suggestions through the comments but, for now, I think I would go with FinancialFreedom2008 Inc.

Such a company name is pretentious beyond belief but my minions will love it and fantasies that they may actually make some money. (ha ha ha)

#5 1200%

Calculate the normal retail price of the product.

Double it.

Double it again.

Hell, triple that.

That's better, now I can pay my distributors a few cents each time they frontload and make a big wad of cash for myself.

#6 Inflation

I would require all my distributors to sign an agreement to the effect that they all have to sell my product at the same overly inflated price.

This will ensure that there are never any price-cutting battles going on, thereby guaranteeing my huge profits.

Who cares if cartels are illegal, we have a legitimate product here, in high demand, so I'm sure we'll get away with it.

#7 No Lies Here

The next stage in the process has to be the propaganda.

Oops, I mean training and induction package.

The challenge here, I think, will be to create some buzz about my useless product without letting on that it's useless.

I'll promise that distributors who get in early will profit the most as they will climb the pyramid of success quicker than the latecomers.

I'll also throw in the usual stuff, you know, residual incomes, financial freedom, yachts, women, all that sort of thing. (If they are coming from another mlm then they will already have been brainwashed into believing this rubbish. Cool!)

#8 Compensation

Step 8 is to iron out the details of the compensation plan.

I was trying to think of some creative accounting procedures to hide how I make all the money, but then I thought why bother?

Instead, I'm sure I can come to some 'arrangements' with anyone who asks too many questions.

#9 Buy, Buy, Buy

I'm going to have to require that all my new distributors load up on inventory (it's the only way for me to profit because I know they won't actually sell it).

If anyone snoops around too much then I may ask that they sell 70% of their inventory to at least 10 members of their family in order to stay legal.

Hopefully, that won't be necessary though.

#10 MLM Fanboys

Now it's time for the starter kit.

In reality this will be a fairly worthless piece of junk but who cares? (I don't, because the mlm fanboys are going to be paying me top dollar for it).

#11 Spamming

Time now to read up on website promotion and spamming techniques.

If I hang around the usual sites and forums then I'm sure I can get the message out.

After all, who amongst the network marketers could resist the opportunity to be first in the door with this exciting new opportunity?

#12 You Are Feeling Very Sleepy...

The next thing I would do is hire a motivational speaker to train the poor fools.

Add in a bit of psychology and I'll have them believing whatever I tell them in no time.

#13 Got The T-shirt

Time now to set up the lucrative (for me) sidelines -

training courses

seminars

their own websites

Financial Freedom 2008 Inc lunchbox and anything else I can convince them to waste their money on.

After all, if they want to be successful then they have to act successful and that means blindly following wherever I lead them.

#14 What's The Weather Like In The Caribbean?

Offshore account time.

Personally, I think I've thought this through quite well.

I even have a slush fund planned in case I need it for bribes.

Then again, my mother always told me to plan for the unexpected so a nice account in the Caymen Islands should act as insurance should I ever need to leave in a hurry.

#15 Generosity

When the money comes in I'm going to be generous with it.

I'll be sure to make many donations - Attorney Generals, Governors, medical establishments, the local Better Business Bureau and a whole range of investigatory bodies do a sterling job and deserve to be recognised

Jack,

Looks like with stellar advice like this your MBA was a total waste. How many bum deals are you pushing now? I lost count. LOL

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-07-2008 09:10 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Jack,

Are your shenanigans bearing that bad fruit you ramble on about? You are no longer a name on your church's website as a leader of a "Life Group" and Stephanie was delisted as a leader of the children's ministry. You claimed that the church was sold and merged with another ministry, but Pastor Stan and his wife Mandy continue to be the only pastor/staff that are listed and the tax rolls remain unchanged.

<http://www.oasischurch.tv/>

dentoncad.org says:
Quote:

Owner ID 634033
Owner Name Oasis Christian Fellowship, Inc
Percent Ownership 100

You also claimed that you officially left the church in Dec 2007, but you were extremely rattled when I sent your pastor the lawsuit against you in district court in January 2008. At that time you said my pastor and we and claimed to be praying for me. Why would you need to pray for me? Why would you be upset about folks sharing the truth with your pastor? It looks to me like your scamming was bearing that bad fruit you carry on about and your pastor was concerned that you were fleecing God's children. If you were of such a good repute and a virtual oasis of integrity then you pastor would be supporting you. Clearly God has seen the truth prevails again and you are not welcome to fleece His flock there.

I am sure all the news media and churches in town will think very highly of all that you boys are up to currently. Are you funding the misadventures in Timmy's Not So Magical Kingdom? And, are you ever going to tell us why it is you think I can't blog about Liberty League? We need a few more big whoppers to poke fun at. Did your delusional cult leader hand you yet more bunk?

Funny that I have documentation for everything and you never come with any facts, lad. Is it now every scammer for himself?

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-09-2008 10:47 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Quote:

advantageconferencesblog.com The Best Blog. Ever.
The Best Blog. Ever. Advantage Conferences Blog. by Josh Peak

<http://advantageconferencesblog.com/>

Quick, Jack, we have a mentor emergency! Josh Peak, months later, still thinks his is the best blog ever. What an embarrassment to Advantage Conferences. You guys sure are doing a great job of mentoring and training folks! LOL!!!

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-09-2008 02:06 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

<http://mysite.verizon.net/resurlf0/a...ruth/id13.html>

Jack,

Remember that whole load of bunk? What happened to the AC star studded event you promised? Did God stab you boys in the back again? You boys sure do look foolish with all this big talk and no action!

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-09-2008 10:23 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Jack,

Are you simply to chicken to show up for any of the fun get-togethers that have happened recently or has your cult leader forbid you to attend? You so value accountability. I am waiting for you dishonest buffoons to report the stalking and death threats you accused me of making. You, Jack, should be at the police station taking that lie detector test we discussed.

I do expect a full and heartfelt retraction. I can assure you your lies are going to bear that bad fruit you are so concerned about! "The damages are adding up and you will be accountable," you said. That is so true, laddie boy. It must be getting hard to keep this circus-like charade going, huh? How do you explain all the obvious falsehoods you and your twisted leader have propagated?

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-10-2008 08:12 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

<http://www.themarketleaders.com/>

That lame site is completely dead. Like everything else connected to Advantage Conferences it is a total bomb. The curse of AC continues! Has there been a sale of the Be Your Own Banker or a November (Mindless Mentoring Conference) flagship conference product ticket yet? We are still waiting for the details on that one/single customer that purchased a conference product retail. A monumental moment in business history to be sure.

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-11-2008 10:42 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

This Bible verse from DailyBibleVerse.org should have been on your sites today:
Quote:

Today's Verse
July 11, 2008

A wife of noble character who can find? She is worth far more than rubies.

Proverbs 31:10 NIV

My hubby loves that particular verse. He is so proud I am working tirelessly to protect the public!

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-11-2008 02:20 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

<http://www.themarketleaders.com/vide...AVideo%3A19303>

Jack is on his way to Michigan by car from Dallas. Notice in the video he is greeting his WorldVentures team. What happened to his brothers and sisters in Christ at Advantage Conferences? I would get out of Dodge too if I was caught in all the legal entanglements Jack is. Will Jack return to Big D or hideout while things at AC implode?

Soapboxmom

Bruceinv

07-11-2008 02:41 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

This guy is with WorldVentures? Uh oh.

Soapboxmom

07-11-2008 08:38 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Bruceinv,

Dear friend we really must be missing something here. Jack is in WorldVentures with all sorts of fabulous travel deals available and he chooses to drive at least 19 hours across the country in his car with three small kids? I take it WorldVentures didn't have any swinging deals to get him home to family in Michigan from a large metropolitan city like Dallas with a gargantuan international airport. Go figure! He didn't book 5 airline tickets, rental car, hotel and attractions with his stellar business opportunity????????

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-14-2008 07:04 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

From Jack's totally lame group, www.themarketleaders.com:
Quote:

Latest Activity

Penny left a comment for Tatyana Gann

1 day ago

Oral Damocles started a discussion called Just 3 Questions...

Jul 12

Keith Ballard added the blog post 'Confused About Your Purpose'

Jul 11

Tiffany Allen and Min Odies Turner are now friends

Jul 10

Cynthia McKelvy added the blog post 'Unlikely to find P. Diddy on these pages... But here he is'

Jul 9

Tony Collins left a comment for Barry Sutherland

Jul 8

Steve Whelan added the blog post 'Honk If You Love Jesus'

Jul 7

Leo Taylor joined Christian Market Leaders OPEN On Principle Entrepreneur Network. Leave a Comment for Leo Taylor.

Only one person post something a day. That certainly qualifies for dead and buried. The Advantage Conferences curse lives on.

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-14-2008 05:03 PM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

<http://share.ovi.com/media/jweinzierl...einzierl.10065>

Jack is putting up hilarious videos. This one should be entitled How to Get the Attention of the IRS and Pay the Consequences. How much potential "jail bird" advice can be found in one video? That stupid video is all over the internet posted by lots of other unscrupulous individuals. You will push anything in your desperation to make a dime it looks like. Folks better give serious thought to getting some professional tax attorney or CPA consultations before taking that video literally. Yikes!

You call yourself the Christian Millionaire Mentor. I for one require proof of your alleged millionaire status. You are so desperate you have put up 94 videos in less than a year for countless scams and bum opportunities. Always bragging about building long term and with integrity when you jump from one Titanic to the next is amusing. Tell us how committed you are to Advantage Conferences now!

Soapboxmom

jweinzierl

07-15-2008 10:53 PM

Re: Watch Out

Heather Dobrott, SoapBoxMom, I looked at your posts this past week and I almost laughed at how wrong a person could be, but that would not be Christian. I feel so bad for you. I truly do. I take my family on a 3 week road trip to visit family throughout the U.S. and you turn that into something bad because I didn't fly. OK, that one is laughable. You turn the fact that we will already have 600 members on <http://TheMarketLeaders.com> after a few months into something negative, go figure.

What have you ever built? You focus on tearing down and putting down and for that I pray for your heart. As for our former church, if you had done your homework vs. all your theories and rhetoric, you would know that their partnership with a west coast ministry fell through and that they went in a different direction thereafter. Again, you have no interest in the truth, just in your agenda and bias.

May your heart be healed. And yes, we are saved by His Grace through faith....not by works.

"For by GRACE you have been saved through FAITH; and that not of yourselves, it is a gift of God; not as result of WORKS, so that no one may boast. For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for GOOD WORKS, which God PREPARED BEFOREHAND so that we would WALK IN THEM." (Ephesians 2:8-10)

Soapboxmom

07-16-2008 08:50 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

<http://www.scam.com/showpost.php?p=538395&postcount=789>

Jack,

Read that post again and respond to the real issues raised here. Let's discuss those hideous allegations of death threats and stalking you boys fabricated. I can assure you that that will be addressed in the many misadventures Timmy is in presently. He included all that in the documents.

You will get tangled up in that as your lovely thread "when i find Jack Weinzierl i will kill him myself!" was brought up as well and I was once again falsely accused of instigating that and encouraging that kind of behavior. Funny I had the e-mail I sent you, the Denton County Sheriff's info, the IP address and e-mail address of the poster given to me by katiescorner to pass on to the authorities and the actual thread itself hard copy. I posted on that egregious thread months after it started to defend my good friend Frank Thomas who you, Jack, were attacking.

How do you think your reputation is faring due to your association with Darnell and Advantage Conferences? It is charming how you think you can lie and cheat people and conveniently you will have automatic forgiveness. I expect a full retraction of those hideous death threat and stalking allegations. You can discuss that with your new pastor.

Soapboxmom

Soapboxmom

07-16-2008 10:59 AM

Re: Watch Out for 7K Advantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Jack,

You and Tim were so worried about gifting schemes. I have been very busy busting those as well. Please note that our friend Brian Martin that was on the thread linked below had a personal visit from the FBI and his Cash Gift Universtiy is being shut down. He learned that Mom knows best. I told him I forward those scams to the FBI and he claimed they wouldn't look into it. Surprise!

Advantage Conferences is dangerously close to a scheme like that. With only one retail sale of the flagship conference product I would be concerned if I were you, Jack.

Quote:

FTC declarations have stated that if the majority of the money used to pay the "upliners" is gained primarily from the purchases of the downliners – not from their retail customers – the payments are de facto payments for recruiting. In such cases, the "business opportunity" is not to sell the MLM products but to recruit others into the "business opportunity" in an endless chain. Endless chains are considered "inherent frauds" since they cannot deliver on their promise of income to any but a few at the top; the vast majority are doomed from the start to financial losses; and the schemes must use deception to lure consumers into nearly certain financial losses.

I blog about whatever I choose. You, Tim and Jason will not dictate any parameters to me. It is also patently ridiculous to run around like a bunch of paranoids claiming I am obsessed with Tim. I am a consumer advocate that looks out for the public interest. Get over yourselves. Yikes!

<http://www.scam.com/showthread.php?t=43296>

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yYxmfWY6Z EQ>

Soapboxmom

Re: Watch Out for 7KAdvantage/Jack Weinzierl is an

Jack said:

Quote:

Oasis sold the building and merged with another ministry out of Los Angeles.

We were blessed to have served the past 3 years at Oasis and it was time for us to help another ministry.

Apparently the building was not sold. I am glad I am not the only one confused. Still very curious that you were so rattled when I sent Oasis the lawsuit against you in January 2008 after you claim to have left in December 2007 and you said:

Quote:

Heather, that was very foolish on your part
 From: Jack Weinzierl (jack@jackweinzierl.com)
 Sent: Tue 1/15/08 12:22 PM
 To: soapboxmom@hotmail.com

Heather, forwarding that to my pastor was extremely foolish on your part. We continue to pray for you Heather. You really should begin communicating with your real name as it is now known by many you attack.

In Service,

Jack

When is Tim planning to help another ministry? No doubt his current church would find that a blessing.

Soapboxmom

time
now is 08:3
6
PM.

Scams Message Board - Copyright ? 2004 Scam.com , All Rights Reserved.