Re: Banners Broker

Just heard back from MasterCard.

As I suspected, they don't have any idea who Banners Broker is. They said they have gotten several complaints already.

They are looking into them, and Vector card services.

I would really like it if you share any updates about what you wrote, about the I.D thing because that worries me more than the few bucks a put in it.

oh and by the way - if you get a chance check out who answers your chat request on BB, I think there are only 10 people or less on the chat support.

another thing, how is it possible that you can only cancel your account and get a full refund only if you send a MAIL to the canda office, is that even legal?

Really would be amazed if you got any satisfaction through BB. As Poyol says, thats why he's getting on to the authorities.

Honestly, asking BB about it is the equivalent of asking a pickpocket not to rob you!

On another note, if anyone actually does by some miracle make some profit. I would advise against spending it...

Eh, maybe they are, maybe they aren't. I actually would hope someone in BB senior management/ownership WOULD read through this thread and respond with a set of facts to back up their claims.

For example, here is a ranked list of every significant ad network out there.

So, which of these networks is BB buying all their capacity from? We already know clicksor is incapable of providing coverage, so there must be others, right?

Nah, I can bet he is too busy counting his money. These guys have cajones the size of melons, are 100% self-assured and probably a resting heart rate of 60. Zero stress on this stuff - they have the best lawyers money can buy who have convinced them they are untouchable.

None of what is being discussed here will cause them to say "hey, these guys are bringing up valid concerns, we should bail out". It's going to take a formal investigation from a legislatively equipped entity to break a sweat any of their brows. Even then, if found to be over-leveraged they will cut a deal like the Zeek guy did, they will give up every top affiliate for clawback (remember those photo IDs?), settle for a portion of what they already liquidated -- and move on to the next venture.

Re: Banners Broker

Good. Have them ready with a list of questions to ask. It's probably either Raj Dixit or Chris Smith. Lesley (although the sole owner of BB UK) seems to be an event coordinator and BB "training specialist".

Top questions:

1. Why did BB first announce themselves to a series of MLM websites and use language like "cyclor doubler" back in 2010?
2. Why does BB claim to have endorsement from MasterCard, when MasterCard states they have no knowledge of a business relationship with them?
3. Why does BB choice network of publishers consist of a bunch of cheap WordPress sites with very low traffic statistics, all registered by the same company in Belize?
4. Who are BB key ad network partners?

5. How many impressions per month does BB drive?

6. Why doesn't BB charge for clicks, only impressions -- when any network partner they work with is charging for clicks?

7. Why did BB decide to share all this wealth with the "common man", if they had such an exclusive business model locked up with enormous buying power from day one?

There are many other questions, but I figure by this point your friend has been asked to leave the meeting ;-)

Re: Banners Broker

I have a few questions that maybe you can post exactly where these assumptions come from?

Top questions:

1. Why did BB first announce themselves to a series of MLM websites and use language like "cycler doubler" back in 2010?

No Clue

2. Why does BB claim to have endorsement from MasterCard, when MasterCard states they have no knowledge of a business relationship with them?

WHERE do they claim this? When? Do any of you really know what a pre-paid mastercard is? ANYONE can get a pre-paid mastercard. You don't have to be "endorsed" by MC to have your very own PRE-PAID Mastercard. You register for your OWN MC via BB. Then, BB "loads" your card from your e-wallet when prompted from you. You pay an activation fee. Now I'm assuming the activation fee goes to Master Card? I'm not positive though, but IF this is the case, do you really think Master Card is going to give a rat's ass who loads a PRE-PAID card and they can use it anywhere MC is accepted? Are there any negative or fraudulent reports on Choice Bank Ltd out there? If so, please post them.

3. Why does BB choice network of publishers consist of a bunch of cheap WordPress sites with very low traffic statistics, all registered by the same company in Belize?

No Clue.

4. Who are BB key ad network partners?

No Clue.

5. How many impressions per month does BB drive?

No Clue.

6. Why doesn't BB charge for clicks, only impressions -- when any network partner they work with is charging for clicks?

No Clue.

7. Why did BB decide to share all this wealth with the "common man", if they had such an exclusive business model locked up with enormous buying power from day one?

No Clue.

There are many other questions, but I figure by this point your friend has been asked to leave the meeting ;-)

How many people that have requested money have NOT been paid? I believe NONE. 😊

All the NO CLUE questions I would love to have answered just as much as the next guy, but unfortunately, for some reason or another, they have not been. Not sure what to tell you on that, but hopefully soon. I will be anxiously awaiting all of the feedback from the "authorities" on all of your reportings though, that's for damn sure 😊

Sometimes, I like to be a spammer. And in this post this is exactly what I am going to do.

There is this an imaginary company named GIVE ME YOUR MONEY Ltd, who is making good money. However as you can see in the cash flow below (which is imaginary) that the big income comes from fresh members as this an an MLM. It actually sells net advertising just like an other company we know. Remember this is a spam post and the numbers you will see are not real.

The fact that this image is being posted in this thread is only coincidental. Some people might find this spam as entertaining, some others as educating and I do apologize to those who find it disturbing.

YES, this is one of the things that got my eye on this site, they say is loud and clear that MasterCard endorsed them and it was a very good point, if MasterCard saw their files and how it all works and made a card for them then it must be a real deal, but then you look and see it's a third party company that sells them..
